in Conflict Resolution and Post-Conflict Reconstruction

Monday 26th – Friday 30th March 2012
London, UK

Professional Certificate in Conflict Resolution and Post-Conflict Reconstruction

What is it?

This is a specialist training course leading to a Level 5 CMI Certificate in Management and Leadership. Upon completion of this week-long course and subsequent written tasks, the successful candidate will be awarded a Level 5 CMI certificate in Management & Leadership showing the CMI units achieved. In addition, the successful candidate will receive a transcript from the International Centre for Parliamentary Studies certifying the specialisation in Conflict Resolution and Post-Conflict Reconstruction.

It is designed specifically for those working in the field of conflict resolution throughout the world. This week-long certificated programme provides those who work in post-conflict situations with the knowledge and skills to re-establish societies and states in the wake of conflict. Leading to a professional qualification accredited by the CMI, the programme tackles the key issues in societies emerging from violent emergencies. Participants will consider problems including displaced peoples, gender, post-conflict democracy and governance deficits, rebuilding economies and the governance of post-conflict reconstruction.

With a particular focus on understanding indigenous and local strategies to peace-building, this programme challenges participants to rethink accepted processes of reconstructing post-conflict societies. Participants will gain insights into the successes and failures of international peace-building projects and the latest research and ideas to confront the ongoing difficulties of post-conflict reconstruction.

The course takes place in London, although we are also able to organise the course in your own country if this is your preference. It is internationally recognised and gives you highly sought after transferable CATS points.

The Chartered Management Institute is the only chartered professional body in the UK dedicated to promoting the highest standards in management and leadership excellence. The professional qualifications offered by the Institute are internationally recognised and sought after.

What level is it taught at?

It is taught at CMI Level 5, which for comparison purposes equates to Bachelor's Degree level and above.

Who is it for?

- Any individual who wishes to develop their core professional capabilities and competencies in the fields of conflict resolution and post-conflict reconstruction
- Any individual who is seeking training specifically related to conflict resolution and post-conflict reconstruction that offers professional accreditation
- Any individual seeking to improve their skills and confidence in their chosen field of conflict resolution
- Anyone who would like to develop their career and improve their CV with an accredited qualification from the CMI

How will my employer benefit?

- Value for money - investing in training that comes with professional recognition
- Return on investment – demonstrably better quality outcomes through an up-skilled workforce
- More proficient management and leadership within the organisation, with associated benefits of improved service delivery and greater productivity
- Improved morale of employees, leading to reduced staff turnover, greater stability, and less need to spend money on externally recruiting new managers and leaders.
- Skills you learn are immediately applicable in the workplace, because of our tailor-made approach
- Quality assured – through the CMI's tried and tested best practice management techniques

What is involved?

To obtain the Chartered Management Institute Professional Certificate in Conflict Resolution and Post-Conflict Reconstruction you will complete one week's training, followed by two written tasks to be completed by you after the duration of the course. Training and guidance are available from our tutors as part of the course, to enable those who wish to be awarded the CMI certificate to complete their written work.

For those who wish to benefit from the training but who do not wish to complete the written work for the CMI certificate, the International Centre for Parliamentary Studies is able to offer its own certificates, as all of our training is also accredited by the CPD Certification Service, the Bar Standards Board and the Solicitors Regulation Authority.

How much does it cost?

Certificate: £2950 (+VAT if applicable) or €3525 or $4575

This covers all tuition, materials, assessments, and membership of the CMI from the beginning of the course until you complete your written tasks.
